1 Introduction

1.1 Project Background

The South Burnett Regional Council (hereafter ‘Council’) is currently preparing a new planning scheme. As part of this process, Council required the preparation of a local heritage study and a recommended local heritage register to ensure it meets its obligations under the State Planning Policy and the Queensland Heritage Act 1992.

1.2 Purpose of this Report

This is the final report for the project and it provides the recommended local heritage register, the methodology adopted to determine the register, recommendations for the management of the places within the planning scheme and further stages of work. The place cards that constitute the ultimate outcome of the study are provided separately.

1.3 Methodology

The following dot points outline the methodology. The following chapters in the report provide the results of its implementation:

- The study began with a review of existing information, including statutory and non-statutory heritage registers, databases, lists and previous studies, and consultation with key stakeholders. The purpose of the review was the production of a ‘long list’ of potential local heritage places. The long list includes places entered on the Queensland Heritage Register and the Commonwealth Heritage Register (where relevant).
- Following the review, a ‘short list’ of places was prepared for field work. The selection of places was based on whether places reflected the key historical themes for the region, if the place could be located and if it was reasonably expected that sufficient information could be obtained within the project timeframe to adequately assess the place’s significance.
- The field work was then undertaken. The purpose of the field work was to physically examine each place, determine its integrity and condition, and take photographs. Places were also added to the long list if identified during field work and not already included in the list.
- Following the field work, a smaller, refined list of places was prioritised for further research and assessment of significance. The assessment consisted of the preparation of histories, physical descriptions, and a statement of significance for each place. A place card was then prepared for each place using a purpose-built Microsoft Access database.
- A final report (this report) was prepared to outline the methodology and results for all stages of the study. The final long list is provided as an appendix.
- Responses to submissions made by owners are included in this report as an appendix.

A heritage tourism strategy was also prepared in tandem with the completion of the heritage study. The strategy utilises the places recommended in this report and is mentioned in the recommendations at the conclusion of this report.

1.4 Limitations

The purpose of the study was to prepare a register of places of local heritage significance for the South Burnett region. The study does not refer to:

- Aboriginal cultural heritage: this is managed under different legislation and in a different manner to local heritage places. Nonetheless, it is important to note that local heritage places identified in the study may also be significant to Aboriginal people.

- Neighbourhood character: although heritage can be a component ‘character’ is more about the overall aesthetic values or contribution of a particular streetscape or suburb, rather than ‘heritage’, which is assessed according to heritage criteria. Character studies typically concentrate on aesthetic components of an area such as roof types, facades and general setting rather than particular places.
- Landscape heritage: specific heritage places may have a landscape component (for example, a pastoral station or a park), but landscape heritage is typically used to describe a broader landscape that represents historical or natural processes across time. Landscape heritage in this respect is similar to character in that it does not necessarily focus on a particular place and, consequently, it is outside of the scope of the local heritage study.

It is also impracticable to identify and assess every potential place of local heritage significance within a particular study because the timeframe and associated costs would be substantial. There are other logistical issues that also impact the number of places that can be assessed. Consequently, the recommended list of places presented in this report is not comprehensive; rather, it is a list of places that reflect important historical themes, were accessible and were supported by sufficient historical information to enable an assessment of significance within the project budget and timeframe.

Although this point must be stated as a limitation, heritage registers and overlays naturally evolve as more places are identified and assessed through community consultation and further stages of work. Indeed, establishing a register or overlay often raises community awareness of heritage in the region and in our experience results in heritage overlays developing and being added to over time.

Nonetheless, it is considered that the recommended local heritage register presented in this report reflects the history of the region and forms an excellent basis to acknowledge the places that contributed to, and continue to reflect, that history.

1.5 Study Timing

The study commenced on 22 July 2015 and was completed at end of April 2016. Notification of the recommended heritage register occurred in June, with owner consultation taking place in July.

1.6 Personnel

The study was prepared by Dr Craig Barrett and Ulrike Oppermann, with the assistance of Simon Gall, Director, Converge Heritage + Community.

2 Review

The following chapter reflects the results of work undertaken in the review phase of the project. Apart from small changes or updates, it appears as it did in August 2015 when the review was completed.

2.1 Heritage Register Searches

Heritage register searches of both statutory and non-statutory registers were undertaken to identify places of heritage significance in the South Burnett region that have already been listed. The key statutory and non-statutory registers accessed for the review were:

- World, National and Commonwealth Heritage Lists.
- Queensland Heritage Register (QHR).
- Current South Burnett planning schemes.
- National Trust Queensland Register (NTQ) - non-statutory.
- Register of the National Estate – archive (RNE) - non-statutory.

There are no places in the South Burnett entered on the World, National or Commonwealth Heritage Lists.

The following sections provide the results of the remaining register searches.

2.1.1 Statutory Registers

Queensland Heritage Register

Seventeen places are listed on the QHR for the South Burnett local government area. An application for inclusion of one further place is currently assessed by the Department of Environment and Heritage Protection (EHP).

Current Planning Schemes

The current planning schemes include lists of places of cultural heritage significance (under Schedule 6 – Non Indigenous Cultural Heritage Sites Listings for each scheme). The list does not include any detail about the places beyond an address, in particular why each place is significant.

Kingaroy

There are twenty-six places listed on the former Kingaroy Shire Planning Scheme. Eight of these places are also listed on the QHR, five on NTQ register and seven on the RNE.

2.1.2 Non-Statutory Registers

Register of the National Estate – archived (RNE)

There are thirteen places of non-Indigenous cultural heritage included on the RNE. All but one of these are currently included in the QHR and/or one of the former planning schemes (and as such are noted in the previous tables). The table below details the remaining place.

National Trust Queensland (NTQ) Register

All eight places of non-Indigenous cultural heritage included on the NTQ Register are currently included in the QHR and/or one of the former planning schemes (and as such are noted in the previous tables).

2.2 Previous Studies

There is a number of thematic histories, previous heritage studies, research material and general histories prepared for the South Burnett region. This chapter briefly examines these in order to provide a context for the preparation of the long list and selection of places for the short list.

2.2.1 Thematic Histories

The Department of Environment and Heritage Protection (EHP) has prepared a thematic history for the Wide Bay and Burnett region, as well as individual thematic histories for key industries. Therefore, a thematic history did not need to be prepared for the current study.

The key historic themes identified for the Wide Bay Burnett are:

- Exploring, surveying and mapping the land.
- Utilising and transforming the land.
- Working.
- Moving goods and people.
- Developing secondary and tertiary industries.
- Building settlements, towns, cities and dwellings.
- Maintaining order.

The thematic history is then broken up into former local government areas – the study was published in 2008 on the eve of Council amalgamations. The table on the following page summarises the key themes and subthemes for the former areas. It includes references to key historic activities and places highlighted in the contextual histories.

The thematic histories for industries includes the following:

- Agriculture.
- Pastoralism.
- Timber.
- Maize.
- Peanuts.

These histories apply to the entire Wide Bay and Burnett region. However, the processes were broadly similar across the region and apply to specific places in the South Burnett region.

In general, the thematic histories of key industries provided a finer level of detail that assisted in the assessment of significance of places in the short list.

Table 7: Historic themes and subthemes associated with key activities and places.

LGA	Theme	Subtheme (if used)	Key activities/places
Kingaroy	Exploiting, utilising and transforming the land	Pastoral	Taabinga Station settled as sheep station by Haly Brothers in 1842, and Burrandowan Station settled by Henry Stuart Russel in 1843, both later changing to cattle. Most early stations resumed and sold off between 1880s and 1890s, including Taabinga, Nanango, Burrandowan and Barrambah. 1917 land allocated for the Soldiers Settlement Scheme.
		Agricultural activities	Land selection and clearing from the late 1880s including for grazing. Crops included maize, pumpkins and later peanuts (1919) and navy beans (1940). Farmers also raised pigs.
		Exploiting natural resources – timber	Timbergetting and sawmilling flourished after the arrival of the railway in the early 1900s. Timber industry remained important to Kingaroy’s economy with six sawmills operating in the shire after World War Two.
	Developing secondary and tertiary industries	Developing manufacturing capacities	1906 Kingaroy Butter Factory opened as branch of the Maryborough Cooperative Dairy Association. Bacon factory opened about the same time in Kingaroy. A cheese factory was established in Booie in 1898 after a slow start to the town with blocks on sale from 1882.
	Moving goods, people and information	Using rail	Railway terminus of the Kilkivan branch line near corner of the Kingaroy Paddock selection in 1904 led to establishment of Kingaroy. The arrival of the railway led to increased development of earlier towns and settlements e.g. Wooroolin and Goodger, and also to the establishment of new towns.

Kingaroy (cont.)	Building settlements, towns, cities and dwellings	N/A	Towns developing slowly despite the Community Holdings scheme, which offered town blocks to selectors of agricultural blocks at no extra cost. Taabinga Village was the first gazetted town reserve in 1887. The school opened in 1897 and the first hotel in 1899. Taabinga Village included two hotels, stores and shops as well as a sawmill in 1907. The first State primary school in the Kingaroy area was opened in 1891 in Coolabunia, established in 1883. By 1899 the town included a church, stores, blacksmiths, bank and hall. Wooroolin, established 1898, flourished after the arrival of the railway in Wondai in 1903. Development of Goodger, established 1892, increased after the opening of the Tarong railway line, a school opened in 1915 followed by a store in 1919. Construction of wells in 1906 supported settlement at Edenvale, first settled in 1900. Later settlements include Kunioon (1902), Crawford (1910) and Memerambi (1908). Daniel Carroll selected 160acre block next to Kingaroy Paddock in 1891, adding a hut and horse yard and later a cottage. In 1904, Carroll and Arthur Youngman, owner of Kingaroy Paddock, auctioned off town blocks. The only buildings in town at the time were Carroll's cottage and hotel, the Carrollee, and FC Petersen's store. The establishment of the Kingaroy railhead in 1904 led to the development of a vibrant town with shops, hotels, service and manufacturing industries as well as public buildings, churches and schools and established Kingaroy as the regional centre of the area. A number of buildings in Kingaroy were destroyed by several fires between 1910 and 1935.

LGA	Theme	Subtheme (if used)	Key activities/places
Kingaroy (cont.)	Maintaining order	N/A	Kingaroy Shire was established in 1912, the area being excised from Wambo, Nanango and Weinholt Shires, later taking in areas from the Wondai and Wambo Shires. First election was held 12 May 1912. First Council Chambers built in 1913, new chambers and offices opened in 1979. Kingaroy Town Hall opened 2 March 1963.
Murgon	Exploiting, utilising and transforming the land	Pastoral	John Stephen Ferriter and Edmund Uhr settled Barambah station in c1843, changing cattle by 1875. Resumptions began in 1877, later resumption around 1900 created Barambah Aboriginal Reserve. Barambah homestead constructed on reduced property in 1905. George W Nutt selected three blocks in Murgon township area after second resumption in 1902, calling the property Castra. Third subdivision of 9000 acres for sale in December 1913.
		Agricultural activities	Main crops were maize and pumpkins. Pig farming and also some cattle industry. Dairy became important farming activity after the arrival of the railway in 1903.
		Exploiting natural resources – timber	Timber important in the early days of area during clearing of the scrub. Fourteen sawmills operating in the area over time, including Robert Nutt’s Sawmill (1911-44), Murgon Sawmilling Company (1913-35) and Edward Thompson’s Sawmill (1910-35).

LGA	Theme	Subtheme (if used)	Key activities/places
Murgon (cont.)	Developing secondary and tertiary industries	Developing manufacturing capacities	South Burnett Co-Operative Dairy Association was established 10 March 1913. The Tiaro Co-operative Dairy Company factory was shifted to Murgon and opened in September 1913. A railway siding to the factory was built in 1914. A new butter factory opened in 1928. Proston branch of the South Burnett Co-Operative Dairy Association operated from 1935 until 1970s. Establishment of the South Burnett Meat Works at Pratt's paddock in 1962. Later industries established in the Murgon region include tanning business (1989) and wine production (1995).
	Moving goods, people and information	Using rail	Murgon became important railway junction when the railway from Goomeri opened on 14 September 1903, connecting Murgon and Wondai. Two branch lines follow; Murgon to Proston, opened February 1923 and Barlil to Winderera, opened March 1925. Trains carried goods, including pigs and cream, as well as passengers. Murgon also acted as depot for train crews. A railmotor service from Gympie to Proston via Murgon operated from 1938 to 1943.
	Building settlements, towns, cities and dwellings	N/A	Murgon township developed quickly from 1902 in the wake of the arrival of the railway with the establishment of shops, hotels, a church and hall in the first ten years. First school opened in February 1908 and the School of Arts building followed in August 1913. A number of fires from 1913 to 1928 destroyed several buildings in town. The Maternity Hospital is built in 1950s.
	Maintaining order	N/A	Shire of Murgon established 16 January 1914, excising areas of Weinholt and Kilkivan Shires. Murgon township established as the centre of Murgon Shire.

LGA	Theme	Subtheme (if used)	Key activities/places
Nanango	Exploiting, utilising and transforming the land	Pastoral	First sheep stations were Taromeo, Nanango and Tarong in 1842, changing later to cattle.
		Exploiting natural resources – mining	Alluvial gold discovery near Nanango in the 1880s, the Scrub Paddock Diggings being the most successful deposit. Mining died down by 1890 with most deposits exhausted by that time. Mining of a various metals including gold, silver, lead, copper and bismuth in small quantities commenced in 20th century, but was short lived.
		Exploiting natural resources – timber	Timbergetting and sawmilling started as early as 1870s, but flourished after the turn of the century. John Heiner established a sawmill in Nanango in 1901, followed by GA Watt, opening the Timber Corporation Mill in 1908 and further mills opening in 1912 and later. Timbergetting, carting and sawmilling main industry in Blackbutt-Benarkin region with several mills in operation in the 20th century. Sawmills include Andersen’s mill in Blackbutt, Raymond’s at Taromeo and Muller’s mill at Nukku,
	Exploiting, utilising and transforming the land	Agricultural activities	Blackbutt and Benarkin areas opened up for selection in 1880s. Maize first major crop. Dairying then became prominent.
	Developing secondary and tertiary industries	Developing manufacturing capacities	Butter factory in Nanango in production by 1906 and extended with a second story in 1907. Destroyed by fire and rebuilt twice (1918 and 1926). Butter factory closed in 1977. Nanango Cheese factory operated from 1941 to 1947. Pembroke established brickworks in Nanango in 1912, supplying bricks to the wider region including for Carroll’s hotel in Kingaroy. Propsch brickworks in operation in the 1940s.
	Moving goods, people and information	Using rail	Railway running from Nanango via Kingaroy and Kilkivan to Maryborough opened in 1911 and operating until 1964.

LGA	Theme	Subtheme (if used)	Key activities/places
Nanango (cont.)		Using air transport	Aerodrome opened in Nanango in 1939.

LGA	Theme	Subtheme (if used)	Key activities/places
Wondai (cont.)		Exploiting natural resources – mining	Dolomite mining near Proston. Mining and fossicking of semi-precious gemstones in a number of areas including Proston, Brigooda, Cloyna and Windera.
		Managing water	Establishment of the Boondooma Dam in the 1980s for water supply to Tarong power station.
	Developing secondary and tertiary industries	Developing manufacturing capacities	Butter factories established in Wondai (1931) and Proston (1934).
		Catering for tourists	Farmstay & cellar-door tourism established in recent years.
	Moving goods, people and information	Using rail	Rail line from Goomeri opened in 1903, aiding closer settlement and development. Establishment of Wondai intrinsically linked to railway connection to Goomeri. Opening of Murgon – Proston line in 1916.
	Building settlements, towns, cities and dwellings	N/A	Wondai township established in the wake of the railway in 1902 and surveyed in 1903. The town flourished with hotels, shops, blacksmith and banks. Most of the business district fell victim to a fire in 1912, but was rebuilt in following years, including Wondai hospital (1915), Memorial School of Arts Hall (1923/28), town hall (1940) and Shepherd Memorial Church of St Peter. Other townships include Tingoorra (1907) and Proston (1910).
	Maintaining order	N/A	Originally part of Baramba Divisional Board. Wondai Farmers’ Progress Association formed 1905, pushed for Wondai to become 3rd Division of Kilkivan Shire. The Division then became Weinholt Shire, which included the Murgon district. In 1912-14, sections of the Shire excised when Kingaroy and Murgon shires formed. Remainder later renamed Shire of Wondai.

2.2.2 Previous Heritage Studies

The following two heritage studies were prepared for former shire areas now incorporated in the South Burnett local government area:

- Heathwood Cardillo Wilson, 1987, Survey of historic Sites – Shire of Kingaroy.
- ARCHAEO, 2001, South Burnett Planning Scheme Review – Cultural Heritage Study.

Other relevant studies included:

- EHP reported places.
- Queensland Department of Environment, Cultural Heritage Branch, 1998, Boondooma Homestead – Conservation Management Plan.
- Bonhomme Craib & Associates, 2006, Indigenous and Non-Indigenous Cultural Heritage Assessments: Tarong Northern Land Ash Emplacement Project.

It is noted in the long list if a place was identified in one of these previous studies. The following sections provide brief summaries of the studies and their relevance to the study.

Kingaroy Shire Heritage Study

The study was undertaken by Heathwood Cardillo Wilson and completed in 1987. It consists of two parts:

- A Survey of Historic Sites
- A Survey of Historic Sites – Towards A Conservation Policy

A Survey of Historic Sites

The study is based on document review, searches and consultation with local stakeholders, and provides a register of sixty eight (68) historic sites (K01 – K68). It also lists a further eighty-four (84) notable sites (K101 – K184) for the former Kingaroy Shire area. The missing numbers (69-99) was a deliberate choice by the study author (it appears that the places from 0-100 fell into the significant category, whereas places over 100 were not particularly significant: therefore, there were only 68 significant places according to the study). The register includes Indigenous and Non-indigenous (historic) sites.

A place card was produced for each historic site (0-68) providing details including:

- Name.
- Location details.
- Other listings.
- Short history and description.
- References.
- Condition analysis.
- Statement of Significance.
- Map.
- Images.

Overall, the extent of information is relatively sparse, although helpful in some cases. The notable sites are listed by name only, although some include location details and a date of construction.

A Survey of Historic Sites – Towards A Conservation Policy

This document provides general guidelines for managing places on the heritage register including the preparation of a conservation management plan.

South Burnett Planning Scheme Review – Cultural Heritage Study

Archaeo Cultural Heritage Services undertook the study in 2001 for the South Burnett Shires of Kilkivan, Kingaroy, Murgon, Nanango and Wondai to assist councils 'to address cultural heritage issues in the development of new planning instruments for these local authorities, according to the provisions of the Integrated Planning Act 1997 (IPA)². The study includes both Indigenous and non-Indigenous (historic) cultural heritage. This review only relates to the historic cultural heritage components of the study and focusses on two chapters:

- Draft Contextual History, November 2001.
- Draft Inventory of Heritage Places, August 2001.

Draft Contextual History

The study includes a comprehensive contextual history of the region organised according to historical themes similar to the thematic histories produced by EHP (see chapter 2.2.1).

Draft Inventory of Heritage Places

The inventory is based on document review, register searches and consultation with stakeholders. A place card has been compiled for each place under the headings:

- Name.
- Category.
- Location including address, LGA and RPD details.
- Boundary.
- Other listings.
- Statement and level of significance.
- History and historic theme/s.
- Description.
- References.
- Comments.

Much of the information in the reviewed draft document is still 'to be determined' or has been taken from the QHR, RNE and NTQ databases.

Twelve places are listed for the former Murgon Shire area, one place (Murgon Fossil Site) being a place of natural heritage rather than cultural heritage, twenty-one places for the former Nanango Shire area, twenty-nine places for the former Kingaroy Shire area and twenty-four places for the former Wondai

² ARCHAEO, South Burnett Joint Local Government Planning Scheme Review – Information Paper: Cultural Heritage, no date.

Shire area. The majority of places is also listed on other registers including QHR, the various planning schemes, RNE, NTQ or identified in the Kingaroy Heritage Study.

2.2.3 Other Resources

EHP reported places

The EHP keeps a list of places that have been ‘reported’ in the past, often through community consultation or via previous heritage studies. The majority of the reported places list for the South Burnett region consists of places taken from the Kingaroy heritage study. However, it does include a number of places that were not found in any of the previous studies. Some of the places include a brief history (although the source of the history is not referenced).

Boondooma Homestead Conservation Management Plan

The conservation management plan provides guidance for the general maintenance and conservation of the place as well as specific recommendations for individual components. The document includes a number of plans and maps, an archaeological report and historical summary.

Indigenous and Non-Indigenous Cultural Heritage Assessments: Tarong Northern Land Ash Emplacement Project

Bonhomme Craib & Associates undertook a cultural heritage assessment in connection with proposed construction work at the Tarong power station in 2006. Four non-Indigenous sites, all relating to dairy farming, were identified during the study. The report provides location details, descriptions, significance assessment and images for each site as well as guidance for their management.

Other resources

There is a range of other useful resources identified during catalogue searches and consultation, primarily secondary sources (works of history for settlements and former shires) and historic photographs. These, in conjunction with the previous heritage studies and other resources described above, ensure that there is a wealth of historical information for the region and this should assist with the assessment of short-listed places.

2.3 Consultation

Phone consultation with key stakeholders was undertaken between the 17th of August and 8th of September 2016. The results are summarised in the table below.

An overview and background information of the study was provided at the beginning of all phone consultations, including methodology and purpose. All participants were offered the option to meet face-to-face and most regarded a further meeting as beneficial.

Table 8: Stakeholder Consultation.

Date	Stakeholder	Topics
17/8/15	Blackbutt and District Tourism and Heritage Association Spoke with: Noelene Bird (Secretary)	Discussed places on the current long list. Noelene provided some additional places. The importance of sport in the region was pointed out (tennis player Roy Emerson grew up in Nukku). Noelene is happy to meet during fieldwork.

Date	Stakeholder	Topics
19/8/15	Kumbia and District Historical Society Spoke with: Gayle Carroll (Librarian)	Gayle provided some feedback on places, but wants to talk to other members at their meeting on 30th August. Would appreciate a meeting either before or during fieldwork.
19/8/15	South Burnett Genealogical and Family History Society Spoke with: Glady Hood (Secretary)	Glady provided information on cemeteries, churches and some schools in the region. She grew up in Booie and has many recollections of the past of the village. The society has a library and Glady is happy to help out with information if needed. Mentioned a few times that she gets called upon regarding heritage a lot and is a bit exhausted from it.
19/8 & 24/8/15	Murgon Dairy & Heritage Museum Spoke with: Cynthia Hatchett (Secretary)	Museum has three heritage buildings on site, 'Bank of NSW' (original location), 'Castra' and 'Trinity House' (relocated to site), also movable cultural heritage from the Murgon Butter Factory and Graham House. The members discussed the study and are happy to be involved. They would like to see the buildings and movable cultural heritage currently at the museum protected. Cynthia provided some feedback on places on the long list and contributed some additional ones. Face-to-face meeting was held at the museum on 14th September. Participants were Glenda Geraghty, Richard (President) and Wanda.
18/8/15	Wondai Heritage Museum Spoke with: Liz Stewart	The museum includes the Oddfellow Hall in its original location and the relocated operating theatre from the Wondai Hospital. The collection includes artefacts, photos etc, currently a display about schools in the region is being developed. Areas the members collect information and artefacts from include Tingoora, Hivesville, Proston, Mondure, Murgon and Crawford. Discussed the long list and Liz provided feedback. Face-to-face meeting was held at the museum on 14th September with Anne Kinsella, Percy Iszlaub and Gloria.
18/8/15	Colin Kratzmann, Kingaroy	Colin is part of a group who has put together a manuscript of the history of businesses in Kingaroy. He is very knowledgeable on Booie, Kingaroy and wider region and has many photos, maps etc. Colin provided feedback on the long list and contributed additional places. Face-to-face meeting took place on the 15th September and Colin assisted further with information and fieldwork.

Date	Stakeholder	Topics
31/8/15	Percy Iszlaub, Wondai	Percy served as mayor of the former Wondai Shire Council. He has in-depth knowledge of the history of the region and was very happy to contribute to the study. He provided feedback to a number of places, some in great detail. Percy contributed new places to the 'Long List' and offered to assist with further help if needed. Percy took part in the face-to-face meeting at the Wondai Heritage Museum on 14th September.
21/8/15	Leo Geraghty, Murgon	Leo contributed some additional places and confirmed places already on the 'Long List' as well as providing additional information. He also pointed to www.murgon.net.au for images etc.
8/9/15	Nanango Historical Society Spoke with: Elizabeth Caffery (Historian)	Initial contact with Mary Green, who was named as key stakeholder. Mary referred to the Nanango Historical Society. Elizabeth has researched the history of Nanango in-depth and published on the subject. She provided feedback on places on the 'Long List' as well as contributed some new places. Suggested that face-to-face meeting with the historic society during fieldwork would be beneficial.
15/9/15	South Burnett Regional Council - Councillors	Workshop conducted with Councillors to discuss the study. Discussion primarily focused on how the study is conducted and what the implications are for owners of places. Some discussion about places on the existing planning schemes list and the perception that they do not demonstrate heritage value. Cr Green also highlighted a number of places in Nanango for further consideration (noted in the Long List).

2.4 Conclusion and Gaps

At this point in the study, the following observations were made (tense as of August 2015):

- Overall, there are currently 376 places in the long list, reflecting all of the places identified in previous studies, lists, registers, heritage studies and during fieldwork and consultation. This is not a comprehensive list, but nonetheless reflects places people believed are locally significant at some point in time. This is a good number of places.
- The thematic histories developed by EHP provide a good historical overview of the region for the purposes of the study.
- The places entered on the Queensland Heritage Register strongly reflect the pastoral and dairy history of the region.
- The places entered in the current planning schemes cover a wide range of places, but do not include an assessment of significance. They will need to be reassessed for this study, but on initial review a number of these places are likely to threshold for local heritage significance.

- The previous heritage studies provide further information on places and some location details, which assisted with the preparation of the short list. However, the information is relatively light and the place cards produced for this study will require new research and preparation of histories, current descriptions and assessments of significance.
- The EHP reported places list, in conjunction with the places listed in the planning schemes, provides a solid basis for assessment in this study.
- Consultation was positive, with some new places noted and other places flagged as potential local heritage significance confirmed.
- The short list of places for field work – below – strongly reflects the key historic themes for the region. It is also long, reflecting the overall strength of the long list from which it is drawn, thus making it more likely that a strong, representative local heritage register will result from the field work and significance assessment in later stages of the study.

Following from these observations, the following gaps were identified:

- Some location details in the Kingaroy study are outdated and some places have been shifted or are now longer extant.

2.5 Short List of Places

The table on the following page represents the short list of places selected for the field work component of the study. It was significantly larger than the number of places that were eventually selected for detailed assessment – this was to ensure the study had the best chance of identifying the most representative places for the recommended local heritage register.

It is important to note that at this stage the list included every place entered in the planning scheme at that time.

3 Recommended List of Places

3.1 Field Survey

Field work undertaken in the week commencing the 14th of September 2015, over a period of five days. The nature of the historic development of the South Burnett meant that the majority of the field work was concentrated on the railway corridor (Murgon through to Nanango), along with Blackbutt, Maidenwell and Proston. Nonetheless, sites outside of these areas were also included where they featured in the short list. More far-flung places generally consisted of historic homesteads and these were all entered on the QHR. In order to be efficient, given the requirement to gain permission for access and substantial distance required to travel, and the current listing on the QHR, these were not generally included in the field work.

3.2 Research and Analysis

A shorter 'assessment' list was determined after the field work. This was generally determined by excluding places that were no longer extant, were in poor condition or generally did not meet basic thresholds for local heritage significance based on a site inspection. The overall number of places recommended for entry to the local heritage register had to also be capped at around 60 or so places (a feasible number that could be completed in the project scope, and excluding places already entered on the QHR), so some places were excluded that might threshold for local heritage significance, but were instead noted for assessment in future stages of work, should this occur. Nonetheless, the places selected for assessment collectively reflect the key historic themes for the South Burnett, which is ultimately the purpose of the study.

Historical research was then undertaken to prepare a history for each place (or, in some cases, to rule out a place for further assessment). The historical research relied primarily on key local history sources, references for which are included in the individual place cards for places on the recommended list of places. Website searches, including the National Library of Australia's Trove (in particular the digitised newspapers) expanded the scope of research and yielded important information for some places. Further consultation with key stakeholders was also undertaken where gaps were evident for places that were clearly of local heritage significance (based on fabric analysis), but required additional information to support the assessment of significance.

3.3 Assessment of Significance

The significance of each place was determined through the application of heritage criteria. The best-practice framework for the conservation of tangible cultural heritage in Australia is The Burra Charter: The Australia ICOMOS Charter for Places of Cultural Significance, 2013.

According to the Burra Charter, a place is considered significant if it possesses aesthetic, historic, scientific or social value for past, present or future generations (Article 1.2). These values are reflected in established heritage criteria that are used by all heritage agencies and statutory heritage Acts in Australia. The criteria used to assess the significance of places recommended for entry to the local heritage register are drawn from the Queensland Heritage Act 1992:

- a. The place is important in demonstrating the evolution or pattern of the region's history.
- b. The place demonstrates rare, uncommon or endangered aspects of the region's cultural heritage.
- c. The place has potential to yield information that will contribute to an understanding of the region's history.
- d. The place is important in demonstrating the principal characteristics of a particular class of cultural places important to the region.

- e. The place is important to the region because of its aesthetic significance.
- f. The place is important in demonstrating a high degree of creative or technical achievement at a particular period for the region.
- g. The place has a strong or special association with a particular community or cultural group for social, cultural or spiritual reasons important to the region.
- h. The place has a special association with the life or work of a particular person, group or organisation of importance in the region's history.

Each place is unique and only the relevant criteria are used to generate a statement of significance for a place.

3.4 Recommended Places

The following table presents the recommended list of places that should be added to the local heritage register. The list consists of seventy-eight (78) places and is represented by individual place cards (separate to this report). These places are designated as 'Stage 1' in the Long List attached to the end of this report.

3.5 Further Stages of Work

Given the limits of the study, there is an opportunity to undertake further stages of work to add to the register and the extent to which it represents the history of the South Burnett region. These places are referred to as 'Stage 2' in the Long List in the appendix attached to the end of this report.

The Stage 2 places were selected because they were noted in key documents or via consultation, but due to the constraints noted above and the importance place on preparing a representative local heritage register, were excluded from assessment in Stage 1. Thus Stage 2 places were included if:

- Were included in the current planning scheme (at the time of the study).
- Were noted in a previous study.
- Were noted in consultation.

Places that were included in the planning scheme at the time of the study should, ideally, remain listed until such time as the second stage of the study can be undertaken.

The Long List also includes places designated as 'Stage 3'. These places appeared on the EHP Reported Places List, but were not mentioned in consultation or included in any previous studies. They might be considered in further stages of work, particularly if new information is received that indicates they may meet the threshold for local heritage significance, but at this stage there is no compelling reason to prioritise them for further study.

4 Recommendations

The place cards prepared for this study are intended to provide a representative list of places that reflect the important historic themes of the South Burnett. This report provides an overview of the process that led to the selection of the places and, importantly, key recommendations for the implementation of the study and the ongoing maintenance of the local heritage register.

The following recommendations are offered to assist with the development and management of the local heritage register.

Converge recommends that the South Burnett Regional Council:

- Accepts the recommended list of places presented in this study (Section 3.4).
- Proceeds with the notification of the recommended list of places as part of the new planning scheme.
- Enters the places following consultation and subject to consideration of submissions into the local heritage register in the new planning scheme.
- If feasible, retain those places already entered in the current planning schemes as local heritage places, but not included in the current recommended list of places, in the new planning scheme to ensure a measure of regulatory protection, subject to further review and investigation in a second stage of the heritage study.
- Appoints a local heritage officer that can manage the register internally and any enquiries related to it. As the number of places is relatively compact, it would be envisioned that this role is part of the officer's wider duties.
- Maintains a webpage on Council's website where all of the place cards are available for viewing by the public.
- Develops a heritage strategy that, amongst other things, establishes a timetable for periodic updates, further stages of work and incentive opportunities for owners of local heritage places.
- Implements incentives for owners of local heritage places as identified in the strategy.
- Prepares conservation management plans for places recommended for entry to the register (in particular those entered on the Queensland Heritage Register), and owned and/or managed by Council.
- Implements the heritage tourism strategy prepared in tandem with the study to further develop economic and tourism outcomes for the region and promote the heritage register.

Owing to the inability of the State President (Mr. R. D. Huish) to attend, Mr. V. C. Andrews, Moreton District President, performed the ceremony. Mr. Andrews was introduced by Cr. T. B. Douglass, President of the local sub-branch of the R.S.S.I.L.A. Cr. Douglass stated that the total cost amounted to £900 When the project was stated the sub-branch had only £50 in the bank. Mr. Andrews said he had heard of optimists, but he considered that members of the local sub-branch were super-optimists. He congratulated the sub-branch, and had great pleasure in declaring the fine building open. Queensland Times (Ipswich) (Qld), 12 April 1939. Note : As at 17-September-2014, it is believed that the hall is going to be replaced by a supermarket. The fate of the building is unclear, and the South Burnett Regional Council will be making a decision on it. http://monumentaustrelia.org.au/themes/confli

Table 1: Response to individual submissions. 5

1 Introduction

1.1 Project Background

The South Burnett Regional Council (hereafter 'Council') is currently preparing a new planning scheme. As part of this process, Council required the preparation of a local heritage study and a recommended local heritage register to ensure it meets its obligations under the State Planning Policy and the Queensland Heritage Act 1992.

1.2 Purpose of this Report

Council proceeded with the notification of the places recommended for entry to the local heritage register. This report provides a response from Converge regarding submissions received by Council during the recent notification period.

Feedback was also received during one-on-one sessions with owners held during the notification phase. The feedback applied to only a small number of places and was primarily concerned with minor changes to the history or description of the places. As the feedback did not constitute formal submissions, it is not included in this report. Changes were made to the relevant place cards based on the feedback.

1.3 Methodology

The Queensland Heritage Act 1992 - and correspondence provided to owners and the public during notification - clearly stated that submissions must address the statement of significance for the relevant place. Consequently, Converge's response primarily addresses points raised in submissions that directly relate to the significance of each place. Other matters that are not directly related to significance are only tangentially addressed.

1.4 Study Timing

The submission period for notification closed on the 22nd of July 2016.

1.5 Personnel

The response was prepared by Dr Craig Barrett.

2 Response

Table 1: Response to individual submissions.

Place	Submission Summary	Response	Recommendations
Kingaroy Butter Factory	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Listing of the place on the local heritage register will impact the ability to make necessary modifications in the future to maintain health and safety regulations. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The place is currently entered on the Queensland Heritage Register. This listing occurred quite recently (2012). Any requirements the owner must meet as part of the Queensland heritage listing will surpass local heritage regulations. The listing of the place on the Queensland Heritage Register is a decisive statement of the significance of the place. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Proceed with the entry of the place in the local heritage register. Offer the owner the opportunity for further discussion regarding the impact of local heritage listing.
Carrallee Hotel	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Agrees hotel is significant. Seek to amend Criterion B to explicitly refer only to the façade, as the remainder of the hotel internally has been modified over time. The owner also offered to meet with Council regarding the proposed listing, but to our knowledge this has not occurred. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Regarding Criterion B: The point is understood. It is clear the concern from the owner is that modern elements of the hotel are not rare because they are not original. 'Façade' generally refers to the external fabric, often facing the street. The problem with relying on the term 'façade' is that aspects of the hotel not commonly associated with that term may be deemed 'not significant' by default. Some changes over time may also be significant, despite not being original. In any case, the statement for Criterion B implies original or early fabric. The planning scheme is sufficiently flexible to ensure there is no impost on the owners in the case of redevelopment if the affected fabric is later/not significant. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Proceed with the entry of the place in the local heritage register. Changes are not required to the statement of significance. Will generally impact the economic viability of the building. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> We acknowledge that changes have occurred over time. In terms of the physical building, the statement of significance primarily draws attention to the façade. Sections of the façade remain largely intact, with later additions constructed to match the original façade. The citation does not make any claims about the interior of the buildings or other buildings (including former structures) associated with the place. The façade, and continued presence of the building overall in its original location, reinforces the significance of retail premises on Macalister Street, which is now rare. The evidence of changes over time and the general focus of the card on the façade provide substantial flexibility for the adaptation and reuse of the site. The other issues raised in the submission do not relate to the significance of the place. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Proceed with the entry of the place in the local heritage register, subject to changes to the citation that clearly reflect the events and alterations that have affected the extant fabric of the building.

Wengenville Township and Sawmill Site	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Nothing left of former mill or town site. • Problems with visitor safety due to people entering the property, most likely because of signs indicating historic site on roadside. • Criticism of suggestion for improved parking facilities, particularly as there is 'nothing to look at'. • Problem with potential blocks on development in the future. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • There is a considerable amount of material still extant associated with the former mill. Most of it is rubble, but some material appears in situ e.g. concrete tank. • The buildings and other structures associated with the town have been removed. However, archaeological potential remains, as well as the general landform and location of the former town. It was unusual in the region to have a town built exclusively to serve a sawmill and any remnant of this is significant. • There is demonstrated association with the site (reflected in the erection of interpretative signs and the 2013 reunion). • The town and mill sites offer interpretative potential. Improved interpretative signage illustrating the former town and mill (and therefore demonstrating the loss of fabric) may in fact assist preventing unauthorised entry on to the property. • Other points not related to the significance of the place. Our Lady Help of Christians Catholic Church	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Do not require a heritage listing to maintain the church. Listing will increase cost of repairs (20% premium). Restrict available tradespeople because of heritage requirements. Similar to 100s of other churches. Size of boundary will restrict potential future development, particularly affecting St Patrick's School. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Does not directly address the statement of significance. Heritage listing is recognising significance of the church in the region's history. Regarding cost of repairs and tradespeople, it is possible that the author of the submission has confused the listing with higher levels of heritage listing. A local listing does not require special maintenance or tradespeople (over and above the current approach to such a building). The heritage boundary can be reduced to incorporate only the church and manse (and fence), alleviating concern about the extent of the listing. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Proceed with the entry of the place in the local heritage register following the reduction of the boundary to include only the church and manse.

One of only a handful of private properties recommended for entry to the register. Heritage boundary excessive. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Regarding association: The submission appears to concur with criterion h. The idea of a 'limited area' does not apply (or this would be the case for any place in the local government area). The place is located in the South Burnett region; any place in the region is therefore significant to the region. The heritage boundary can be reduced to a much smaller boundary that only surrounds the house and immediate grounds. The other concerns are appreciated, but are not based on evidence. Maintenance is not affected by the listing. Development rights are not lost. There are no additional compliance requirements. Other properties that are privately owned have also been nominated for entry to the local heritage register. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Proceed with the entry of the place in the local heritage register following the reduction of the boundary to only include the house and immediate grounds.

3 Recommendation

3.1 Conclusion

In conclusion:

- There have been eighteen (18) submissions from a total of 78 places notified.
- Submissions therefore represented 23% of the total places notified.
- Of these:
 - Eight (8) were against the listing of a place.
 - Seven (7) supported the listing of a place.
 - The remaining three (3) included submissions requesting additional places for entry, addressed only part of a place or were not definitive.
- Thus, submissions against listing constituted only 10% of the total places notified, with submissions in support effectively the same percentage.
- In general, this is an excellent outcome for the notification phase of the study.

3.2 Recommendations

The following general recommendations apply following a review of submissions.

- It is in Converge's opinion that all of the places notified for entry to the local heritage register should be adopted by Council, including those for which submissions were received.
- Some places should nonetheless be modified as per the comments in the previous table before adoption.
